Automatic two free throws after two (2) fouls under 2:00 minutes.
6. Two (2) minutes will be allowed for the first overtime period and One (1) minute for each additional period. Games will be played until a winner is determined.
7. The clock will run continuously throughout the entire 1st and 3rd quarter.

8. The clock will stop on all whistles in the final minute of the 2nd quarter. The clock will stop on all whistles in the final (2) minutes of the 4th quarter and overtime.
9. Eight second backcourt rule.
10. Defensive three second rule. Any defensive player, who is positioned in the lane, must be actively guarding an opponent within three seconds. Actively guarding means being within arm's length of an offensive player and in a guarding position.
11. Five second back to the basketball violation. An offensive player in his frontcourt below the free throw line extended shall not be permitted to dribble with his back or side to the basket for more than five seconds. The count ends when (1) the player picks up the ball, (2) dribbles above the free throw line extended or (3) a defensive player deflects the ball away.
12. Shot Clock (24 Second Clock). The shot clock is reset to a certain number of seconds (usually 24) when the ball touches the rim or goes into the basket; and when possession of the ball switches to the other team, such as with a rebound, steal, or violation. In some cases, such as when the new offensive team does not have to travel the entire length of the court, the initial setting may be lower. The shot clock does not start to count down until a player achieves control of the ball, or in the case of a made basket, a player achieves control of the in-bounds pass. The offensive team must shoot the ball before the shot clock expires. If the shot clock expires before the ball leaves the player's hand, the team has committed a shot clock violation that results in a turnover to their opponents. The buzzer may sound after the ball leaves the shooter's hand; this is not a violation. Near the end of a period, if the shot clock would ordinarily display more time than the game clock, the shot clock is switched off (not to 0.0). The game clock shows how much time players have to shoot, because a shot must leave the hand before the end of the period. If the offensive team is fouled and the penalty does not include free throws but just an in-bounds pass, the shot clock is reset. There are several cases where the offense does not need a full 24 seconds. The shot clock is instead set to 14 following an offensive rebound. In several other cases where the offense inbounds the ball in its frontcourt (such as a foul by the defense not resulting in free throws), the offense is guaranteed 14 seconds. On a held ball (whether decided by a jump ball or a possession arrow), the state of the shot clock depends on which team gets possession of the ball. If the defensive team acquires possession, the shot clock is reset, as it is on any other change of possession. If the offense retains possession, the shot clock is not reset, because there was no change of possession.

 In the event of no shot clock, we will have 5 second counts in play

13. The penalty for committing a take foul (a foul in which the defender does not make a play on the ball) to stop a transition scoring opportunity (which exists when, following a change in possession, the offensive team is continuously advancing the ball while it has an advantage based on the speed of the play, the position of the defenders or both) will be as follows:

- The offensive team will be awarded one free throw, which may be attempted by any player on the offensive team in the game at the time that the foul is committed.
- The offensive team will retain possession of the ball.
- The defensive player who commits the take foul will be assessed a common personal foul.
